Adding/remove file permissions

2019/08/18

I recently got a junked computer from work that turns out just needed a factory reset. I decided to make it my Media computer and took the extra storage from my main computer and put them in the new one. I like to have all permissions open between all computers so that I can edit a file from anywhere. After switching the hard drives around, I decided to do some organizing of folders and files. Some of that also involves renaming files. When I try to do that from a computer that is not the host, I apparently need permission from what appears to be an old User/Group. I'm trying to just remove that specific one, but can't seem to do that either. I guess my question is how do I open all permissions to every computer/profile (Admin, User, Owner, etc) on the network or at least make sure one stays deleted? I'm mainly playing around in the Properties > Security > Advanced area. Hopefully this all makes sense....
